Dio Questioning Delayed By Senate Roll Call Vote

3 Henchmen Refuse to Answer Probers

Rackets King
Gives Full Name
While On Stand

WASHINGTON — New York rackets king Johnny Dio took the stand before the Senate Labor Rackets Committee today, but a roll call vote in the Senate delayed his testimony.

The buzzer summoning senators to a roll call vote sounded as Dio gave the committee his real name, John Dioguardi, his age, 43; and his address, Point Lookout, Long Island, N. Y.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) recessed the hearing until members could go across the street to the Capitol, vote and return.

The trial was not expected to resume until later this afternoon. At the morning session, three of Dio's henchmen balked when investigators tried to trace their careers in "paper locals" of the Teamsters Union. They gave only their names and addresses. All refused to say whether they were afraid of Dio.

Dio straight-armed United Press photographer Stanley Tretek behind the ear as he stormed his way into a revolving door leaving the Senate office building. Whirling into the door, Dio shouted at the pursuing cameramen.

Meanwhile, on the witness chair, Sidney Hodes, Abraham Brier, and Nathan Gordon, all Dio henchmen, claimed their privilege under the Fifth Amendment to refuse information about their careers.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Gordon operated a liquor store until he suddenly turned up in 1955 as secretary-treasurer of Teamsters "Paper Local" 651, one of the practically memberless units set up at the request of Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa to swing an election for control of Teamsters in the nation's largest city.

Kennedy said Hodes and Brier were officers in Local 649 of the AFL United Auto Workers, Dio's "mother local." Each, Kennedy said, "played an important role" in the chartering of a group of "paper" locals in the Teamsters Union.

Hodes invoked the Fifth Amendment about 37 times, refusing to say, among other things, whether he became an officer of three of the paper locals after leaving local 649. Counsel Kennedy called 649 Dio's "mother local."

Seek Information About Heirs of Late Ernest Crews

Atty. Jack N. Clemons, 726 Dermott Building, Memphis, Tenn., is seeking information about heirs of the late Ernest Crews, described as a white male, 66 years of age, who died at Memphis May 19, 1956.

A letter to The Daily Register said he had been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Mr. Crews, that he has not been able to find any heirs.

"Our investigation reveals he was born in Harrisburg, Ill.," he wrote. He asked anyone he related to the man to contact him. "There is approximately a thousand dollars in this estate and our investigation so far has turned up no heirs," the letter said.

Reaction Favors McElroy as New Defense Chief

WASHINGTON — Senators appeared generally favorable today to President Eisenhower's appointment of soap manufacturer Neil T. McElroy to be his new secretary of defense.

Eisenhower sent McElroy's nomination to the Senate Wednesday. McElroy, president of Procter & Gamble, would succeed present Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Wilson was expected to step down about the end of the month but no exact date has been set. It was presumed Wilson would stay on long enough to break McElroy into the job.

Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) praised the nominee as "a top-notch businessman and an excellent administrator."

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which will hold hearings on the nomination, declined immediate comment.

But committee member Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said he was confident the group will be impressed by McElroy's character and ability.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) sounded the only sour note. Asked for comment on the 52-year-old soap company executive's appointment, Humphrey said "this is a tacit admission that there is a necessity for a clean-up in the Department of Defense."

Trucking Firm Pays On Equality Bridge Damage

The Central and Southern Truck Lines, owner of the tractor-trailer truck that crashed through the Equality bridge on October 18, 1956, has paid Gallatin County $785.78 for the damage. This is believed to represent one third of the cost to the county for replacing the structure.

The payment was accepted by members of the Board of Supervisors at their adjourned meeting held Tuesday. The board had voted on December 4 to investigate the accident with plans to file suit against the trucking firm.

At Tuesday's meeting the board also voted to pay Dr. John E. Doyle $125 for an autopsy on the body of Vincent York and agreed to pay Charles Cox $50 for his burial.

The supervisors agreed to pay one half the cost of bridge repair in Omaha Township in the amount of $208.99; one half the cost of bridge repair in Gold Hill Township, $94.12; and one half the cost of bridge repair in Bowlesville Township, $324.45.

Chicago Attorney Charged with Hiring Hoodlums to Slay Lady Friend's Husband

CHICAGO — A group of experts today examined bullet markings and a printed note in efforts to unravel a murder mystery involving an attorney charged with hiring two hoodlums to slay the husband of his lady friend.

The attorney, Joseph R. Roth, was to appear in court today on charges of conspiracy to commit the murder of Sanford Lerner.

Lerner, 46, a wealthy department store owner, was shot down in the darkened vestibule of his home last April 3. Police said the slaying followed a plan two men said Roth outlined to them.

Roth, free on $400 bail, denied the charges and said the entire affair sounded "like the scenario of a show I'd see on television."

His accusers, Sheldon Polakoff, 39, a former tavern owner, and Donald Dube, 29, said Roth made a $200 down payment on the murder pact and agreed to pay them $1,500 when the job was completed. They had also extorted $500 for a murder weapon but never carried out the assassination, they said. Both are under similar charges—conspiracy to commit murder and to commit assault.

Roth was arrested by Detectives Charles Fitzgerald and Wilbur Davis Tuesday night, on the basis of statements made by his accusers. The would-be murderers said Roth wanted to do away with Lerner because he was in love with Lerner's wife, Lilyan, 45, a slim brunette.

Chas. Grace, 80, Veteran Labor Leader, Dies

Charlie Grace, 80, 207 South Skaggs street, Harrisburg, well known miner and veteran labor leader, died at the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado at 4:25 p. m. Wednesday following an illness that had hospitalized him for the last two months.

Mr. Grace was born in 1877 and came to southern Illinois in 1900, where he worked in the coal mines. He continued at this work until 1916 when he was elected Executive Board Member for the miners' union. He continued to serve in various official mine union capacities until his retirement in 1949.

He was nationally known in labor circles and his ability as a negotiator and interpreter of contracts as well as his knowledge of Workman's Compensation Law, which he gained as legal investigator for the miners, was generally recognized. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

On January 29, 1925, he was married to Mrs. Katherine McGuire, who survives.

Mr. Grace had known for some time that he was suffering from a fatal illness so he made plans for his funeral, even explaining the manner in which he wished to be dressed. He also selected the following pallbearers: Charlie Gibbons, John Sisk, Howard Bickel, Earl Cummins, Frank Wright and Charlie White.

He made a special request that his long time friend, Bert Tavenner, deliver the funeral oration and that Rev. Kenneth Edwards of the Calvary Baptist church of Eldorado pronounce the benediction.

The funeral will be held at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado at 2 p. m. Friday.

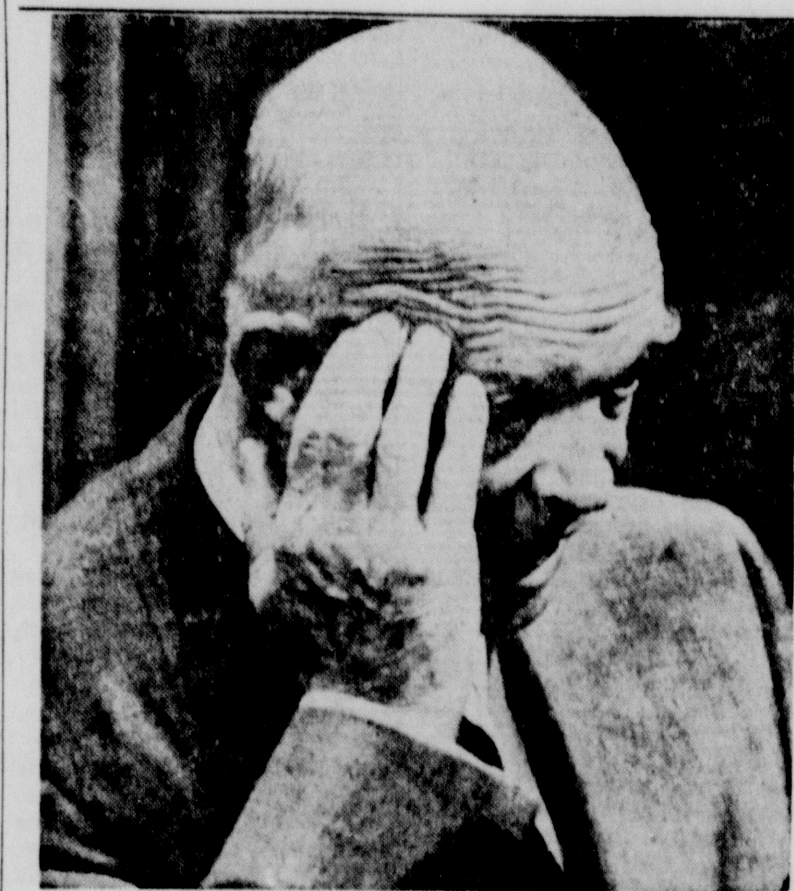

Burial will be at Elmwood cemetery near Equality, and full military rites will be observed.

The family has requested that flowers be omitted.

Col. Abel Indicted As Russian Spy

Called Most Important Red Spy In the U. S.

Maximum Penalty

On Conviction

Would Be Death

NEW YORK — A fellow Russian espionage agent who defected to the West shaped up today as the key witness against Soviet intelligence Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, indicted Wednesday as the most important Red spy ever seized in the United States.

Ironically, the potential witness, Reino Hayhanen, was named as a co-conspirator in the indictment against Abel who posed in this country as a down-and-out artist and photographer for nine years while heading a Soviet spy ring. Hayhanen, who spent six years in the United States as a trained spy, was flown here earlier this week and testified Wednesday before the Brooklyn grand jury that indicted Abel on three counts of espionage.

Abel, a mild-mannered, nondescript-appearing man of 55, was pictured in the indictment as the mastermind of a spy network that transmitted American defense secrets to Moscow by radio and courier. Specifically, Abel, a Russian national, was charged with conspiring to transmit to Russia documents, maps, photographs and other information "relating to the national defense" of the United States.

If convicted, he could be executed under the so-called Rosenberg law, which sent Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to the electric chair in 1953 for spying for Russia.

Entered From Canada

The balding, blue-eyed Abel, who entered the United States from Canada in 1948, was expected to be returned here in a day or two from Edinburgh, Tex., where he was held without bail in the Hidalgo County Jail after declining bond. The Soviet intelligence officer was turned over to the FBI Wednesday by immigration officials who were about to deport him for entering the United States illegally when the indictment was returned.

Abel was arrested in New York June 21 on a charge of illegal entry and placed in an alien detention camp at McAllen, Tex. Subsequent inspection of his hotel room here convinced agents Abel was a Russian spy. In the room, the agents found a short-wave radio set, a hollowed-out pencil and several cryptic notes. A later search of his small studio uncovered a second short-wave radio, cameras, and photographic equipment including microfilm. In addition, the agents found maps of several cities and other urban centers, including New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Abel's studio was in a building directly across from the Brooklyn courthouse where the indictment was handed up Wednesday.

So far as they knew, authorities said, Abel was not linked with the espionage ring headed by Jack and Myra Sobel of New York, who are scheduled to be sentenced Friday for transmitting American defense secrets to Russia. Nor was he believed to have been connected with another alleged Red spy network to which George and Jane Slatovski, Americans living in Paris, have been linked by the U. S. government.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

What are people? Are they mere physical beings made up of skin and bones? Are they bundles of nerves, circulation systems, digestive systems, and reproductive cells held together by a skeletal framework?

Some say that humans are animals. Others believe that men are collections of emotions, experiences and ideas centered in minds or brains.

We mortals are all of these things and many more. We are patterned after the Creator Himself except for the mere human form.
The body is only a physical structure in which the character and its related human qualities reside.

Above all else, we are temples of the spirit after whose likeness we were created. We are not simple organisms.

We are complex with weaknesses and frailties. If we use these temples of worship we shall enjoy a power which we cannot otherwise know.

Fat Cat Ambassadors Give U. S. Number of Advantages

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Wiley
Buchanan, State Department's
chief of protocol, took this writer
to task the other day—in a nice polite way—for a recent column on the appointment of political fat cats as U. S. ambassadors overseas.

The piece had pointed out that 17 of President Eisenhower's ambassadorial appointees had donated nearly a quarter of a million dollars to the GOP treasury in 1956.

There was another side to this story, said Buchanan. Ambassadors weren't appointed just because they had made big contributions to the political party in power. And they weren't appointed just because they were rich men who could entertain and put on the social dog in a way that career
U. S. Foreign Service officers cannot afford to do.

BUCHANAN, OF COURSE, is in a position to know about these things. He was President Eisenhower's ambassador to Luxembourg from 1953 to 1956. He was not a career diplomat. His previous government experience had been seven years as an administrator in the machine tool section of various defense production agencies in World War II and the Korean war.

Any self-respecting striped pants diplomat might look down his

Eisenhower Asks Funds to Combat 'Asiatic Flu'

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $500,000 to prepare for a possible national epidemic of "asiatic flu" later this year.

The money was requested to finance "immediate measures" by the Public Health Service to combat a fall and winter outbreak of the disease, which has spread to this country from the Orient.

The money would be used to assist state health departments in coping with heavy demands for diagnostic service.

Of the 10,600 Americans who perished in fires during 1956, 6,300 died in buildings and 4,300 outside buildings.

It Happened in Southern Illinois

Mining of Kaolin Once Was Important

John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University
A few years ago Southern Illinois began to break out in a rash of centennial celebrations and evidently found it a pleasant experience. Schools, churches, communities and assorted groups have continued the practice. Even now, a half-dozen such observances are underway.

Several appropriate occasions for such observances, however, may slip by unnoticed. One of these would mark the opening of the state's first kaolin mine about one mile south and two miles west of Cobden in Union county.

Failure to observe a kaolin centennial will not be strange, for the industry is entirely gone. Except for one lonely house, several times worked over, the town of Kaolin to which the product gave a name has joined the roster of vanished villages. Only a few of the now aging men who worked there in the declining years of the industry are left to tell of it. A few lingering traditions of better days are still heard, and scars left on the hillsides may still be seen.

First Site at Anna

This earlier Illinois industry apparently resulted from the activities of the Kirkpatrick brothers, competent and skilled potters, who set up shop on a site near the present post office at Anna in 1859. The Kirkpatrick pottery made the conventional products of the early potter, such as churns, jars, jugs, milk-crocks, bowls and bed chambers. They also made less conventional pieces like mugs with frogs seated on the bottoms to meet the startled gaze of the drinker when he had finished.

They made demijohns with symbolic snakes wound about them. Inkwells, castles, ornamental shoes to set upon the marble tops of old time bureaus, and inscribed decorative vases were among their products. They also mass-produced many thousands of clay pipes, the kind that used stems of pipe cane. Many of their less conventional products had artistic merit and are even yet sought by collectors.

With their pottery in operation, the Kirkpatricks began to seek better materials for use in it. They found an outcropping of excellent kaolin on a hillside about five miles northwest of Anna and opened a pit for its removal. For some time they hauled this clay from the pit to their pottery in Anna by ox wagon. A principal use of kaolin was in the making of the distinctive glaze that identified their product.

Active Industry

Kaolin from the pit they had opened was much sought by other potters over the country, and shipment was begun over the railways. Machinery was installed to dig clay from the large open pit. A railway spur about a half-mile long was laid from the station named Kaolin to the mine. A drying, processing and loading shed 60 feet wide and 300 feet long was built. Additional open pits and some tunnel mines were opened to the north and east of the original one. Drying, bagging and shipping sheds were built at the railway tank town of Mountain Glen about a mile and half north of Kaolin.

The mining of kaolin was an active industry for many years. When World War I came it was found to be of strategic value and mining was accordingly increased. Several hundred men found employment here. With the close of the war and the development of glazes using other materials, kaolin mining declined greatly. The original pit that had expanded to cover about three acres was abandoned and allowed to fill with water. The decreased demand for the clay was met by sinking vertical shafts in deposits found on the north side of the hill.

Men who had come to work at the mines moved away. The post office and stores of the village closed, the railway station and switch were removed and the shipping shed was allowed to fall down. Now, just short of its centennial, the industry has entirely ceased. The large pit, once about a hundred feet deep, has filled with silt from the surrounding hills until it is now about thirty-five feet deep. Only when the visitor looks at this lake and considers that about a half million cubic yards of the clay were taken from it alone, does he realize the magnitude of the industry that centered here.

A few years ago beavers came to live at the lake. Tree stumps they gnawed along the margin of the lake may still be seen with sections of the logs they cut. Now, even the beavers have abandoned the site. Fresh cuttings show that they are busy, as beavers should be, along the nearby creeks.

Ancient Indian Campsite

In addition to the appeal that the story of Kaolin offers to those historically inclined, the site offers many other things of interest. Those who would birdwatch will find many kinds that are not common, such as kingfishers, chuck-will's-widows, and crow-sized pileated woodpeckers. Plant life also is in great variety.

If the visitor is interested in Indian remains, one of their ancient campsites is found on either side of the gravel road leading south near the railway curve west of Mountain Glen. Indian Chimney, about a mile west and south from the site of vanished Kaolin, offers a continuing puzzle. Those interested in gathering fossils will find a nice deposit of them beside the roadway about a mile east of Mountain Glen.

The village of Mountain Glen itself should appeal to those who again would glimpse something of the vanished calm of a country village of 50 years ago. They are a friendly people and will pause to talk about the times when kaolin was an important industry in the vicinity.

One strange fact connected with the kaolin mining industry remains, however. Despite the number of men employed, the years during which work was carried on and the hazards naturally connected with mining, no one could recall an accident that cost a life.

To the Moslems, the dome of the rock over which the Great Mosque of Omar is built in Jerusalem is a sacred place.

Khrushchev Blasts Hopes for Reunification of Germany

BERLIN (U.P.) — Soviet Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev warned the United States today it is within range of "present" nuclear rockets. He cautioned the London disarmament conference to remember this before rejecting Soviet proposals.

"With the present development of rocket weapons, no nation is safe from attack," he said. "U. S. statesmen should think about this."

"Distance will not protect any nation from the effects of atomic and hydrogen bombs. Those statesmen should think about this who reject disarmament agreements."

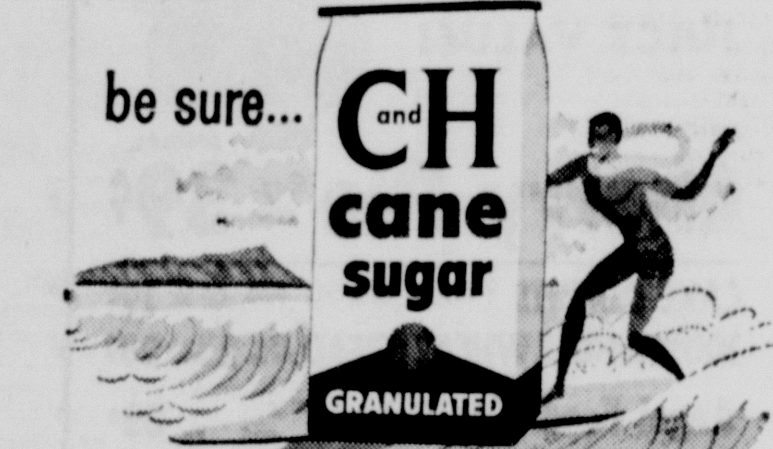

Khrushchev's blistering remarks on Soviet weapons development were an old time, but he offered a new variation in linking rocket progress to the London disarmament talks.

One Russian demand in London is for a total ban on nuclear weapons, which the West rejects as unenforceable.

No Hope for Unity
Khrushchev, speaking for two hours to East Germany's powerless puppet parliament, repeated earlier Soviet statements that no country is safe at this stage of rocket development. He said in any way today large areas of the world

Mamie's Surgery A Hysterectomy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The operation undergone by Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower Tuesday was a hysterectomy—the removal of the uterus. The operation is commonly found necessary for women after they reach middle age.

Medical authorities said today a hysterectomy is a major operation involving "all the risks of major operations."

However, they said the after effects of a needed hysterectomy on a middle aged woman are "nothing but beneficial." They said patients normally take about a month to recuperate.

They said hysterectomies are found necessary for a number of reasons. But he said the principal reason is the presence of benign or malignant tumor.

The White House reported after Mrs. Eisenhower underwent surgery at Walter Reed Army Medical Center that no malignant condition was involved.

President Eisenhower visited the 60-year-old First Lady Wednesday night at Walter Reed for about an hour and a quarter. As he left he said when asked how she felt: "Fine, oh, fine."

Procter & Gamble has been given a tip-top rating by Management Audit, published by The American Institute of Management, an independent non-profit making organization organized for the study of business operations.

The February, 1957 audit says in part, with reference to Procter & Gamble—"... At that time, no other company which we had studied offered such evidence of managerial superiority. ... We are of the opinion that the company continues to enjoy the best possible guidance, and is eminently entitled to be classified by our standards as the best managed business enterprise in America."

In 1929 Mr. Siddall was married to Miss Helen Walker of Cincinnati. They have a daughter, Susan—now Mrs. Edward F. Castelberry—and a granddaughter, Anne Porter Castelberry.

Mr. Siddall is active in the professional, civic and church life of Cincinnati.

He is a member of the Cincinnati Country Club, Queen City Club, Bankers club, is a past National President and Board Chairman of the Controllers Institute of America. Chief community interests are: Girl Scouts—Member of Men's Finance and Advisory committee; University of Cincinnati—Member of Advisory committee to the Dean of the College of Business Administration;

Community Chest—Vice Chairman, Executive Budget committee; Red Cross—Member, Board of Directors of Cincinnati and Hamilton County Red Cross;

Institute of Fine Arts—Chairman, Budget Review committee; Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce—Member, Board of Directors;

Community Health and Welfare Council—Member, Board of Directors; The Cincinnati School Foundation—Member, Board of Directors;

Seventh Presbyterian church—Member, Board of Trustees and Chairman, Endowment Fund committee.

Mr. Siddall, who has a degree of "Commercial Engineer" has been elected to a number of National social, scholastic and professional fraternities.

Friends of Mr. Siddall are wondering if another advancement in the Procter & Gamble Company awaits him. The company has been in the news lately with the announcement that the company president, Neil H. McElroy, is to step out of private business and into a top government post.

Mr. McElroy has been nominated by President Eisenhower to become Secretary of Defense.

U.S. Steel Chief Denies Increase Causes Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Steel Corp. Chairman Roger M. Blough today denounced as "sheer economic superstition" any notion that a rise in the price of steel could set off a new round of inflation.

Blough said the "myth" that steel prices are too high conceivably "has been born of a natural desire to find some convenient scapegoat upon which to blame our inflationary troubles."

He said steel now is selling at an average price of about 7 3/4 cents a pound and termed this "something of a modern economic miracle."

The chairman of the world's largest private steel company said "it is impossible to argue" that big-business profits "have contributed to inflation at all."

He suggested that the sources of inflation should be sought in increased wages and other benefits to employees.

Blough made his remarks in a statement before the Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee looking into the recent $6 a ton increase in the price of steel.

U. S. Steel boosted its prices June 26 barely 24 hours after President Eisenhower appealed to business and labor to hold down price and wage increases to help put the brakes on the inflationary spiral.

U. S. Steel's action, quickly followed by other major steel concerns, was termed by some congressmen as "irresponsible" and as helping to feed the fuels of inflation.

Centralia Man Captured After Wild 2-Hour Chase

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — Police captured Dewey Mills, 23, Centralia, near here after a wild two-hour chase.

State police began their chase after they were notified a man drove away from an Alma filling station without paying his bill for a tank of gasoline.

The police earlier had received a report of a car stolen from Mt. Vernon and they believed the man might be driving that car.

A road block was set up on Ill. 37, the road the man reportedly took from Alma.

When the man came to the road block, he crashed through it. Police fired several shots at the speeding car.

Police said the car matched the description of the stolen car.

Effingham police spotted the car near Lillyville and caught up with the man.

Mills jumped from his car and ran into a cornfield. Police chased him on foot and finally captured him near the Lillyville Roman Catholic Church.

Mills is being held in the Effingham County Jail.

Methodist Men's Annual Revival To Open Tuesday

The third annual tent revival sponsored by the Gallatin County Methodist Men will begin Tuesday night, August 13, according to President H. H. Barlow. The revival will be held at the intersection of routes 1 and 13 each evening through August 25.

Rev. Jack Frick, popular pastor-evangelist-teacher, will deliver the message each evening, services beginning at 7:30. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doerner of Norris City, a popular singing team, will lead the gospel song services. Rev. Frick is pastor of the Trinity Methodist church in West Frankfort, Illinois.

Rev. Frick has served 5 years as superintendent of schools in Colorado. He is now serving as professor of religion at McKendree College at Lebanon, Illinois, and works on the extension staff of the college. Mr. Frick is a member of the Methodist Conference Board of Education and is on the district committee for ministerial training.

The evangelist attended college at Southern Illinois University and Asbury College and finished graduate work and seminary at Illinois School of Theology, Denver, Colo. He began preaching at the age of 17 while in high school. A very spiritual preacher, Rev. Frick has held numerous revivals in several states.

House Approves Air Force Chapel, But No Airfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has decided to let the Air Force Academy build a 19-spired aluminum chapel after all.

But the House held firm on its refusal to let the academy have an airfield.

Funds for the new academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., were included in a $1,581,590,587 money bill for financing military construction projects and assorted minor government programs during the current fiscal year. The bill was cut $279,158,380—about 15 per cent—below the amount requested by President Eisenhower.

The House passed it, 330-75, and sent it to the Senate.

Some $1,521,500,000 of the new funds was earmarked for the Defense Department's worldwide base construction program.

One of the agencies with a vital stake in the measure was the Tennessee Valley Authority. The congressmen voted down, 244-158, a Republican move to trim the TVA allowance from $13,317,000 to $3,533,000.

They also affirmed, 150-59, a tentative decision to build a second airport for the nation's capital at nearby Burke, Va. The measure provided $12,500,000 to start the project.

Plane Struggles To Cross Pacific With 67 Aboard

HONOLULU (AP) — A Military Air Transport Service C97 with 67 persons aboard and two of its four engines dead today struggled to fly the last 1,000 miles of its flight from California to Hawaii.

The Navy said the pilot of the plane, military version of the double-decker Boeing Stratocruiser, had reported that he had five hours and four minutes of gas left "and if I make it the tanks will be pretty dry."

The plane was trying to reach the Hilo, Hawaii, airport.

The Air Force said the 10 crewmen and 57 passengers "had tossed everything possible out of the plane including baggage" as the crippled craft maintained "greatly reduced flying speed."

"The pilot reports things look favorable so far," the spokesman added.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier sent the carrier Bon Homme Richard to what the Navy said was the "possible ditching site." The Coast Guard sent the cutter Chataqua from Hawaii.

Williamson Fair Carnival Worker Arrested Here

Donald H. Casper of San Antonio, who has been with the carnival at the Williamson county fair, today was held for investigation following his arrest here late yesterday by City Policeman Pat Atkinson on a shoplifting charge.

Casper, who came here from Marion in an old-model car he bought at Marion and which bore dealer's plates from the agency, is charged with taking four articles worth $7.30 from the Harrisburg Kroger store, then taking them back and trying to get a refund.

Officers were called and he was seen coming out of the A and P grocery, where he was picked up. Items he had in a sack, bearing the Kroger price marking, were two boxes of home permanents, a $1 bottle of shampoo and a can of automobile wax.

Casper denied taking the articles, declaring he brought the stuff over to Harrisburg for some girls at the carnival to get a refund.

Chief of Police Ross Lane said that he had been picked up in Du Quoin July 31 on a shoplifting charge but that the charge was reduced and he paid a fine for disorderly conduct.

Illinois Parents to Test Validity of Mississippi Marriage

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorneys in a child bride case dug into law books today in preparation for the second round of a court battle testing the validity of a Mississippi marriage.

Attorneys for the parents of Jane Gehrke, 13, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kanzler, are trying to show that her Mississippi marriage to Carl Gehrke, 18, is not valid in Illinois. Gehrke's attorneys argue the marriage must be recognized here.

The bride's parents pleaded Wednesday with a judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus forcing Gehrke and his parents to give up custody of their daughter.

Judge Samuel B. Epstein said he feared the elopement could start an "epidemic" of Chicago youngsters running off to Mississippi to get married.

Alto Pass Man Dies of Injuries

ANNA, Ill. (AP) — Leroy Davis, 34, Alto Pass, died today of injuries he received late Wednesday when a tree fell and crushed him.

He was taken to Union County Hospital.

River Adventurer Finds Remains in '56 Plane Wreckage

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Federal officials indicated today they would wait until mid-September to investigate reports by a Colorado River adventurer that he had found human remains among wreckage from the 1956 Grand Canyon airliner collision.

At the same time, a college professor said he believed the rings Robert Billingsley, 39, Ajo, brought back with him were those of a California woman killed in the June 30, 1956, crash, worst in history of commercial aviation. A total of 128 persons died in the collision.

Billingsley told Bill Close, news director of radio station KOY, Phoenix, in an interview Tuesday that he found enough human remains to fill "10 or 12" burlap sacks. He brought back rings he said he found on a "mummified" hand at the site of wreckage from what appeared to be the TWA airliner involved in the crash.

Graham Blames Coddling Parents For Delinquency

NEW YORK (AP) — Juvenile delinquency is a problem in America because "we offer youth nothing but amusement and coddling and not enough direction and authority," Billy Graham said Wednesday night.

The 38-year-old evangelist told a Madison Square Garden audience of 16,000 that New York and other cities face a teen gang problem because parents don't give their children "something to dedicate themselves to."

"Young people become bored with all the amusements and coddling lavished on them," he said, "and so they form gangs."

"In Germany, Hitler got the youth . . . to march proudly under the swastika . . . Mussolini got the youth of Italy to follow him in black shirts. The Communists give their youth a sense of dedication the same way."

"In America, let's give our youth Christ and watch them march under his proud banner, and the heart of the teen-age problem will be solved."

The revivalist, who will devote all of his New York crusade sermons next week to the teen gang problem in this city, said that often juvenile delinquency is the fault of scoffing parents.

Adverse weather conditions which have plagued southern Illinois farmers all spring have set the stage for more unforeseen disaster. So observes Saline County Farmers' Union President John B. McFarland. In normal years corn would be in various stages of ear formation. These ears would play host to the corn ear worms. With no ears to attract in the late planted fields, this year's hatch of ear worms are eating on the leaves and cutting the top of the stalk off.

This will cause a stunted and barren plant. Practically no fields of young corn in Saline county are without some damage at present. When checking your fields figure the percent of damage, as too much damage would make it inadvisable to spray. Also tear several plants apart to see the extent of damage to each plant, Mr. McFarland advises.

Your next step, he says, is to take some of your damaged corn plants and some of the worms to the Extension Agent. He will give you good advice on how to proceed from this point. If you can't for some reason contact the farm adviser, L. B. Kimmel, you can still verify whether you have ear worm damage by comparing the worms doing the damage and the worms you can now find in the ear of the early corn. Some farmers are having very good results using a spray material for ear worms and directing it straight down into the top of the young corn. Where damage wasn't too severe, new growth showed in a few days.

Newcombe Says He 'Might Have' Spit at Fans

JERSEY CITY (AP)—Don Newcombe, the Brooklyn Dodgers' temperamental pitcher who was accused of striking a fan during the 1956 World Series, conceded today he "might have" spit at some fans when he was removed from Wednesday night's game with the New York Giants.

The 240-pound right-hander, who dropped an 8-5 decision when the Giants scored five runs in the ninth inning, appeared from the press box to spit when he walked off the mound. Members of both teams refused to confirm or deny that Newcombe did but Don said when contacted early today, "I guess I did."

"I might have done it," Newcombe said. "I don't know. I was so mad. Why are they so rough on me in Jersey City? One night a couple of years ago I left my wife and baby to appear at a rally at Jersey City armory. That night 5,000 people cheered me. Now all they do is boo me. I don't care if I ever pitch in Jersey City again."

Newcombe made his gesture when he was about 10 feet from the Brooklyn dugout. He had just yielded a three-run pinch-hit homer by Hank Sauer and then pitched three balls to relief pitcher Marv Grissom.

The major leagues' pitcher of the year in 1956 when he had a 27-7 record, Newcombe has lost four straight decisions and has a 9-10 record this year. He carried a 5-3 lead into the ninth inning Wednesday night when Daryl Spencer and Ed Bressoud beat out infield hits and Sauer homered.

Harrisburg Junior Legion Edges Carmi Nine, 7-6

Harrisburg and Carmi battled into extra innings Wednesday night before Harrisburg edged out with a 7-6 victory in a Junior Legion baseball game. The victory put the locals in second place in the league standings with a record of 8 wins against 2 defeats.

Harrisburg had a big 6-3 lead going into the seventh inning, then Carmi rallied for three to knot the count at 6-all. Carmi's rally was built around an error, two hits, a base on balls and a hit batter.

The winning run for Harrisburg came on a single by Clark, a walk to Stone moving Clark into scoring position and he came around on a safe blow by Hassett.

King, Harrisburg pitcher, allowed Carmi only four hits and retired 13 on strikes. Lingafelter of Carmi was touched for only five hits, but walked 11.

Clark paced Harrisburg's attack with three hits, including a triple. Stone also had a three-bagger and Hassett banged out a single.

Sunday afternoon Harrisburg will be host to Norris City. The game, part of a twin-bill, will start at 1 p. m. Completing the double-header will be a scheduled Old Belt league game featuring Harrisburg and Norris City.

Manager Gilbert Maynard requests all Legion players to report to the VFW diamond at noon Sunday for pre-game practice.

Dairy Brand, Martin Oil Win Kiwanis Games

Dairy Brand defeated Skaggs Pharmacy, 16-12, and Martin Oil beat Coca-Cola, 11-8, in Kiwanis league baseball games played Wednesday at the VFW park.

Dairy Brand came from behind to score six runs in the fourth inning and then scored five more in the fifth and sixth to ice the game. Hegglin, M. Johnson and Gulley combined for the win, allowing nine hits and nine walks while fanning 10. Gulley had three safeties, Zeigler had two and Mitchell and Utter had one each for Dairy Brand. B. Meadows was Skaggs' big gun, driving in seven runs in his first two times at bat with a grand-slam homer and a three-run triple. Wright had three safe blows, Rose two and Bensavage one for the losers.

Martin Oil scored four times in the first and led all the way in defeating Coca-Cola. Potter was the winner, giving up six hits, walking six and striking out eight. For Martin at bat Lambert had three hits, Warmelink two and Betz, Hickey, Wunderlich and Lucas one apiece. Stunson picked up three hits for the Cokes and Darrar, Gibbons and Bergin hit safely once. Stunson was charged with the loss.

Giants' Howell To Direct Pros Against All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP)—The College All-Star coaches never have sent a team against one tutored by the New York Giants' Jim Lee Howell, but none of them are concerned about a "first time" Friday night.

Howell will direct the Giants against the collegians, directed by a pro veteran, Curly Lambeau, for the third time, in the second appearance of the New Yorkers in the annual clash, scheduled for the 24th night.

The records favored the professionals, since the collegians have won only seven games and tied two of the 23 already played.

EVANSVILLE CHANNEL 7 TO TELECAST GAME

Evansville Channel 7 television station will telecast the Giants-College All-Star tilt Friday night over the ABC network. The game will begin at 6:30 (central standard time).

Howell, too, may have something new to try out against the college boys, most of them soon to be pro rookies.

Curly Is Confident

But Lambeau was confident that Howell couldn't show his squad anything for which they'll be unprepared.

"He's been well-scouted," Lambeau said. "I expect no problem."

His chief assistant, Hank Anderson, former Chicago Bears coach who handles the All-Star defense, agreed that the Giants should have nothing new.

"He uses standard offenses similar to those the Giants used under Steve Owen," he said, "and I don't think we'll have any difficulty."

Both Lambeau and Anderson coached teams frequently against the Giants when they were directed by Owen.

Plenty Of Passes

The Giants, though, can be sure of one thing. The collegians will be set to throw plenty of passes with possibly four signal callers alternating. John Brodie of Stanford, Len Dawson of Purdue, Jim Harris of Oklahoma, and Paul Hornung of Notre Dame.

It could be, too, that Hornung will get into action at a halfback post and possibly as a receiver, with one of the other quarterbacks doing the throwing.

Several of the All-Star ends rated as standout pass receivers. Joe Walton of Pittsburgh, Tom Maentz and Ron Kramer of Michigan, Brad Bomba of Indiana and Lamar Lundy of Purdue, and virtually all the halfbacks could be receivers on wide plays.

Conley Hurls Braves to 12-2 Win Over Reds; Cubs Trip Cards; Giants Beat Dodgers

By United Press

It took a long time, but stringbean Gene Conley finally has gotten around to helping the Milwaukee Braves toward some of that World Series lettuce.

Conley has suddenly blossomed forth with seven victories in his last eight decisions to give the Braves what they've been looking for all along—a fourth dependable starter.

Conley's fine seven-hit effort against Cincinnati Wednesday night gave the Braves a 12-2 victory that stretched their National League lead to 1 1/2 games. The triumph was Milwaukee's 10th in the last 12 games and Conley, who won only two games up until the All-Star break, has won 4 of those 10.

Wes Covington drove in four of the Braves' run with a pair of homers while Red Schoendienst knocked in three more with a bases-loaded triple in the seventh inning.

The Chicago Cubs, on their longest winning streak of the season made it five in a row when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1, and the Giants beat the Dodgers, 8-5, at Jersey City, N. J., in the only other scheduled National League contests.

Home runs by Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long paced the Cubs to their triumph over the Cards. Rookie Dick Drott picked up his 10th victory although he needed a neat bit of relief pitching by Dick Littlefield in the eighth. Drott departed after St. Louis filled the bases with one out in the eighth. Littlefield came on and induced pinch-hitter Walker Cooper to bounce into a double play. Herm Wehmeier was the loser.

Don Newcombe of the Dodgers had a 5-3 lead going into the ninth inning when he ran into a three-run homer by pinch-hitter Hank Sauer. Clem Labine took over and the Giants added two more runs when Ray Jablonski singled with the bases full. Marv Grissom pitched one-hit ball for three innings in relief of Johnny Antonelli to gain the victory.

Hurls Fifth Shutout

Jim Wilson of the White Sox hurled his fifth shutout and 12th victory in holding the Athletics to two hits. The White Sox routed

Mickey McDermott with a six-run burst in the third inning, Earl Torgeson and Jim Rivera each delivering two-run singles.

Tom Sturdivant of the Yankees had a two-hit shutout and a 1-0 lead against Washington in the ninth inning but Eddie Yost tagged him for a two-run homer. Sturdivant gave up two more singles before Bob Grim took over.

A sacrifice and Art Schult's sacrifice fly then brought in what proved to be the deciding run. Mickey Mantle blasted his 30th homer off Tru Clevenger in the bottom of the ninth and Hank Bauer homered in the first inning. Bud Byerly, second of three Senator pitchers, was the winner.

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

BY GENE OLSON

THE STORY: Friends of Barney Jethroe, who was killed some years ago, have kidnapped the man responsible for his death from Harney Blanchard, a federal marshal. The only person who offers to help Blanchard is Pike Ambrose, a 17-year-old boy who works in a stable.

III

Roy Wilson's little place on Missouri St. showed no light. Roy was sitting on the porch, alone. He stood up, tall and thin. It was almost like he'd expected us.

I said, "This is Harney Blanchard, judge. He was with Dorsey tonight."

"I see," Wilson said, a chill in his voice. Wilson was getting old. He liked being judge and they said he tried to be fair but he wasn't too smart, they said, and had made some bad mistakes in his time. He said, "And what is it you want of me?"

"Information," Blanchard said. "Somebody in your town took a federal prisoner tonight."

"So," Judge Wilson said, letting himself back into a chair. "I wasn't there, marshal."

Wilson maybe wasn't smart but he was smart enough to be scared. Blanchard said, "Your marshal quit. Nobody's been appointed since. That gives you responsibility, judge."

"It doesn't look like that to me," Wilson said, snapping it out. "My job is to dispose of cases brought before me. I can't apprehend, too."

Blanchard said, "Will you tell me anything about what happened?"

Wilson took out his pipe and rapped it on the step. Wilson said, "It appears, marshal, that you would know more about it than anybody else."

Blanchard stood staring at Wilson for a long time. Then he turned and stepped past me and I followed him out into the street. He walked south, slower than before, and I trailed along. He didn't act mad. I knew if it was me, I'd be pawing the dirt and grinding my teeth.

Blanchard said, "McNabb said the name Peterson. Where do I find him?"

"Peterson lives down this way," I said, walking off fast. Peterson and that's all, I thought. First thing I knew he'd nail me against a wall and I'd tell everything I knew.

At Peterson's, I faded back into the dark when Jordan Peterson came to the door. He didn't look good, standing there blinking at Blanchard.

"McNabb said I should see you, Mr. Peterson," Blanchard said. "What do you want?"

"I'm Blanchard, United States deputy marshal. A prisoner was taken from me here tonight. McNabb seemed to think you could help."

Peterson grunted deep in his throat. "I don't know what John was thinking. I'm sorry that it happened, of course, but I don't see anything I can do."

Blanchard turned a little and looked off toward me in the dark. He rubbed his eyes, like a tired man will. I saw his shoulders lift when he breathed deep. He turned back to Peterson. He said, "Who appoints your marshals?"

"The Commerce Committee."

"Maybe they'd better appoint one."

"John quit only this evening. It will take time to find another qualified man."

"Why did McNabb quit?"

"I think you'd better ask him."

"All right, Mr. Peterson," Blanchard said, soft.

"Just a minute, marshal," Peterson said, stepping out onto the porch. "When this is over, you'll leave. We have to stay. This is where we live. You have to understand how that is. We don't want trouble."

Blanchard headed for the street. I moved out behind him and then stopped. I could feel Jordan Peterson's eyes drilling my back. I turned and looked and wanted to laugh at him but I didn't dare. He was trying to work it out about me and Blanchard. I could have told him not to fret about it but I thought: What did Jordan Peterson ever do for me?

We walked back to Chicago St., me and Blanchard. In the first light, he stopped and grabbed my shoulder so hard it hurt. He said, "A skinny kid... maybe 20 years old."

"Just about," I said.

"Pike, I've got to get Pete back. Not maybe. Got to."

He didn't know anything about the Clements and Barney Jethroe and how things had been for years back. By the time he found out, the way it was going for him, Dorsey would be dead.

He said, "Tell me what you saw at the depot. Tell me who it is, how much time I've got."

Deep lines cut into his face and his eyes snapped. I could see his neck muscles tighten against the skin. I could feel a trap clamping onto me.

"You want to get me killed?" Blanchard's grip went slack. He breathed deep. "No," he said, soft.

I started away from there, walking toward the livery. I looked over my shoulder. Blanchard was watching me. It struck me hard what a shame it was, all of it, this tinhorn town and a fine man like Blanchard. In my mind I could see him walking in the dark all night, not knowing where to look or even what to look for or how much time he had to look.

I took a couple of steps back. "Now you listen," I said. "No need to go off half-cocked. You got some time until Cole Jethroe gets here. That's Barney's brother. They say he'll be in on the train from Chicago and they got to wait."

Dio Questioning Delayed By Senate Roll Call Vote

3 Henchmen Refuse to Answer Probers

Rockets King
Gives Full Name
While On Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York rockets king Johnny Dio took the stand before the Senate Labor Rackets Committee today, but a roll call vote in the Senate delayed his testimony.

The buzzer summoning senators to a roll call vote sounded as Dio gave the committee his real name, John Dioguardi, his age, 43, and his address, Point Lookout, Long Island, N. Y.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) recessed the hearing until members could go across the street to the Capitol, vote and return.

The trial was not expected to resume until later this afternoon. At the morning session, three of Dio's henchmen balked when investigators tried to trace their careers in "paper locals" of the Teamsters Union. They gave only their names and addresses. All refused to say whether they were afraid of Dio.

Dio straight-armed United Press photographer Stanley Tretick behind the ear as he stormed his way into a revolving door leaving the Senate office building. Whirling into the door, Dio shouted at the pursuing cameramen.

Meanwhile, on the witness chair, Sidney Hodes, Abraham Brier, and Nathan Gordon, all Dio henchmen, claimed their privilege under the Fifth Amendment to refuse information about their careers.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Gordon operated a liquor store until he suddenly turned up in 1955 as secretary-treasurer of Teamsters "Paper Local" 651, one of the practically memberless units set up at the request of Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa to swing an election for control of Teamsters in the nation's largest city.

Kennedy said Hodes and Brier were officers in Local 649 of the AFL United Auto Workers. Dio's "mother local." Each, Kennedy said, "played an important role" in the chartering of a group of "paper" locals in the Teamsters Union.

Hodes invoked the Fifth Amendment about 37 times, refusing to say, among other things, whether he became an officer of three of the paper locals after leaving local 649. Counsel Kennedy called 649 Dio's "mother local."

Seek Information About Heirs of Late Ernest Crews

Atty. Jack N. Clemons, 726 Dermott Building, Memphis, Tenn., is seeking information about heirs of the late Ernest Crews, described as a white male 66 years of age, who died at Memphis May 19, 1956.

A letter to The Daily Register said he had been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Mr. Crews, that he has not been able to find any heirs.

"Our investigation reveals he was born in Harrisburg, Ill.," he wrote. He asked anyone he related to the man to contact him. "There is approximately a thousand dollars in this estate and our investigation so far has turned up no heirs," the letter said.

Kelly Yost Siddall, Equality Native, Holds Top Executive Post With Soap Firm

Administrative Vice President With Procter & Gamble

One of the top level executives of The Procter & Gamble Company is a native of Equality—Kelly Yost Siddall.

Mr. Siddall joined Procter & Gamble June 1, 1926, as Supervisor of Costs for one of the subsidiary companies. In January, 1928 he became Supervisor of Costs for the parent company and has advanced in the organization to his present position as Administrative Vice-President—a position topped in the officers of the organization only by the Chairman of the Board of Directors and President.

Mr. Siddall was born May 19, 1901, in Equality, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob P. Siddall. He was graduated from the Equality Public School in 1916 and was a member of the Equality Township high school graduating class of 1920.

A brother, Dr. Halton P. Siddall, a dentist, resides in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Many relatives and friends of the Siddall family still live in the Equality area. Following graduation from the Equality Township high school Mr. Siddall enrolled at the University of Cincinnati and graduated in 1925. He immediately entered the business world as assistant purchasing agent for Emery Industries.

Reaction Favors McElroy as New Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators appeared generally favorable today to President Eisenhower's appointment of soap manufacturer Neil T. McElroy to be his new secretary of defense.

Eisenhower sent McElroy's nomination to the Senate Wednesday. McElroy, president of Procter & Gamble, would succeed present Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Wilson was expected to step down about the end of the month but no exact date has been set. It was presumed Wilson would stay on long enough to break McElroy into the job.

Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) praised the nominee as "a top-notch businessman and an excellent administrator."

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, which will hold hearings on the nomination, declined immediate comment.

But committee member Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said he was confident the group will be impressed by McElroy's character and ability.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) sounded the only sour note. Asked for comment on the 52-year-old soap company executive's appointment, Humphrey said "this is a tacit admission that there is a necessity for a clean-up in the Department of Defense."

Trucking Firm Pays On Equality Bridge Damage

The Central and Southern Truck Lines, owner of the tractor-trailer truck that crashed through the Equality bridge on October 18, 1956, has paid Gallatin County $785.78 for the damage. This is believed to represent one third of the cost to the county for replacing the structure.

The payment was accepted by members of the Board of Supervisors at their adjourned meeting held Tuesday. The board had voted on December 4 to investigate the accident with plans to file suit against the trucking firm.

At Tuesday's meeting the board also voted to pay Dr. John E. Doyle $125 for an autopsy on the body of Vincent Vot and agreed to pay Charles Cox $50 for his burial.

The supervisors agreed to pay one half the cost of bridge repair in Omaha Township in the amount of $208.99; one half the cost of bridge repair in Gold Hill Township, $94.12; and one half the cost of bridge repair in Bowlesville Township, $324.45.

Chicago Attorney Charged with Hiring Hoodlums to Slay Lady Friend's Husband

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of experts today examined bullet markings and a printed note in efforts to unravel a murder mystery involving an attorney charged with hiring two hoodlums to slay the husband of his lady friend.

The attorney, Joseph R. Roth, was to appear in court today on charges of conspiracy to commit the murder of Sanford Lerner.

Lerner, 46, a wealthy department store owner, was shot down in the darkened vestibule of his home last April 3. Police said the slaying followed a plan two men said Roth outlined to them.

Roth, free on $400 bail, denied the charges and said the entire affair sounded "like the scenario of a show I'd see on television."

His accusers, Sheldon Polakoff, 39, a former tavern owner, and Donald Dubey, 29, said Roth made a $200 down payment on the murder pact and agreed to pay them $1,500 when the job was completed. They had also extorted $500 for a murder weapon but never carried out the assassination, they said. Both are under similar charges—conspiracy to commit murder and to commit assault.

Roth was arrested by Detectives Charles Fitzgerald and Wilbur Davis Tuesday night, or the basis of statements made by his accusers. The would-be murderers said Roth wanted to do away with Lerner because he was in love with Lerner's wife, Lilyan, 45, a slim brunette.

Chas. Grace, 80, Veteran Labor Leader, Dies

Charlie Grace, 80, 207 South Skaggs street, Harrisburg, well known miner and veteran labor leader, died at the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado at 4:25 p. m. Wednesday following an illness that had hospitalized him for the last two months.

Mr. Grace was born in 1877 and came to southern Illinois in 1900, where he worked in the coal mines. He continued at this work until 1916 when he was elected Executive Board Member for the miners' union. He continued to serve in various official mine union capacities until his retirement in 1949.

He was nationally known in labor circles and his ability as a negotiator and interpreter of contracts as well as his knowledge of Workman's Compensation Law, which he gained as legal investigator for the miners, was generally recognized. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

On January 29, 1925, he was married to Mrs. Katherine McGuire, who survives.

Mr. Grace had known for some time that he was suffering from a fatal illness so he made plans for his funeral, even explaining the manner in which he wished to be dressed. He also selected the following pallbearers: Charlie Gibbons, John Sisk, Howard Bickel, Earl Cummins, Frank Wright and Charlie White.

He made a special request that his long time friend, Bert Tavenner, deliver the funeral oration and that Rev. Kenneth Edwards of the Calvary Baptist church of Eldorado pronounce the benediction.

The funeral will be held at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado at 2 p. m. Friday.

Burial will be at Elmwood cemetery near Equality, and full military rites will be observed.

The family has requested that flowers be omitted.

Passed by Senate

Rayburn Promises Statement on House Handling of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's watered-down civil rights bill was delivered to the House today and Speaker Sam Rayburn promised a statement Friday on how he proposes to handle it.

The veteran Texas lawmaker declined comment on the bill. A Senate reading clerk returned the Senate-amended bill to the House immediately after Rayburn gavelled the session to order.

Without fanfare it was placed on the speaker's desk, where it was expected to remain until early next week pending final agreement on Democratic strategy for getting it passed and sent to the White House.

Democratic leaders other than Rayburn have made no secret of their plans to seek quick concurrence in either the Senate version or something pretty close to it.

There was growing belief they would succeed, as major civil rights groups and supporters made it plain they would rather have a modest first step—as they labeled the Senate bill—than nothing at all.

There was much jockeying and maneuvering ahead, however, with Republicans and Southern Democrats holding the key to the outcome—as they have in the past.

The Senate, by a resounding majority of 72-18, turned a historic corner at 8:15 p. m. e. d. t. by passing its first civil rights measure in 82 years.

All of the no votes were cast by hard-core members of the Dixie bloc fighting the measure, plus liberal Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.) who called the bill a sham hearing "little more than the title." Voting for it was a crushing coalition of 43 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

The Senate bill provides for a bipartisan commission with subpoena powers to investigate voting rights violations; a new assistant attorney general to handle rights cases; repeal of an old law empowering use of federal troops to enforce Negro rights; and power for the attorney general to seek injunctions to halt threatened voting rights violations.

One of the major Senate changes from the House bill was addition of an amendment requiring jury trials in all criminal contempt cases. This would apply not only to violators of voting rights injunctions but of all injunctions obtained under federal laws. Judges could, however, impose civil penalties aimed merely at securing compliance with the injunctions without juries.

Eldorado Council Approves Vapor Street Lights

Members of the Eldorado City Council, at this week's regular meeting, gave unanimous approval to the proposed vapor street lighting program for the city.

The council had previously approved an engineer's plan for the modern street lighting system, but tabled the proposal when the Eldorado Chamber of Commerce requested the removal of parking meters.

The City Councilmen came up with the decision of "no parking meter revenue, no vapor lights." The C of C apparently has dropped the parking meter removal program.

It is hoped the new system will be in operation by Christmas time. A satisfactory agreement apparently has been reached between oil companies with storage tanks in Eldorado, citizens and the council.

Sometime ago, following a disastrous explosion and big fire when an oil storage tank was hit by lightning, a group of citizens, represented by Atty. Harry McCabe of Harrisburg, petitioned the council to have all storage tanks removed from within the city.

However, the petition was opposed by many Eldorado citizens and the oil companies. Removal of the tanks would have been expensive, there would have been the loss of free gas for many home owners, rental revenues would have been lost and some of the wells, where production was low, would have been closed.

The oil companies have agreed to install approved safety devices on the tanks. This proposal apparently is satisfactory to all concerned.

Called Most Important Red Spy In the U. S.

Maximum Penalty
On Conviction
Would Be Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A fellow Russian espionage agent who defected to the West shaped up today as the key witness against Soviet intelligence Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, indicted Wednesday as the most important Red spy ever seized in the United States.

Ironically, the potential witness, Reino Hayhanen, was named as a co-conspirator in the indictment against Abel who posed in this country as a down-and-out artist and photographer for nine years while heading a Soviet spy ring. Hayhanen, who spent six years in the United States as a trained spy, was flown here earlier this week and testified Wednesday before the Brooklyn grand jury that indicted Abel on three counts of espionage.

Abel, a mild-mannered, nondescript appearing man of 55, was pictured in the indictment as the mastermind of a spy network that transmitted American defense secrets to Moscow by radio and courier. Specifically, Abel, a Russian national, was charged with conspiring to transmit to Russia documents, maps, photographs and other information "relating to the national defense" of the United States.

If convicted, he could be executed under the so-called Rosenberg law, which sent Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to the electric chair in 1953 for spying for Russia.

Entered From Canada

The balding, blue-eyed Abel, who entered the United States from Canada in 1948, was expected to be returned here in a day or two from Edinburg, Tex., where he was held without bail in the Hidalgo County Jail after declining bond. The Soviet intelligence officer was turned over to the FBI Wednesday by immigration officials who were about to deport him for entering the United States illegally when the indictment was returned.

Abel was arrested in New York June 21 on a charge of illegal entry and placed in an alien detention camp at McAllen, Tex. Subsequent inspection of his hotel room here convinced agents Abel was a Russian spy. In the room, the agents found a short-wave radio set, a hollowed-out pencil and several cryptic notes. A later search of his small studio uncovered a second short-wave radio, cameras, and photographic equipment including microfilm. In addition, the agents found maps of several cities and other urban centers, including New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Abel's studio was in a building directly across from the Brooklyn courthouse where the indictment was handed up Wednesday.

So far as they knew, authorities said, Abel was not linked with the espionage ring headed by Jack and Myra Sobel of New York, who are scheduled to be sentenced Friday for transmitting American defense secrets to Russia. Nor was he believed to have been connected with another alleged Red spy network to which George and Jane Slatovski, Americans living in Paris, have been linked by the U. S. government.

Fat Cat Ambassadors Give U. S. Number of Advantages

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Wiley
Buchanan, State Department's
chief of protocol, took this writer
to task the other day—in a nice polite way—for a recent column on the appointment of political fat
cats as U. S. ambassadors overseas.

The piece had pointed out that 17 of President Eisenhower's ambassadorial appointees had donated nearly a quarter of a million dollars to the GOP treasury in 1956.

There was another side to this story, said Buchanan. Ambassadors weren't appointed just because they had made big contributions to the political party in power. And they weren't appointed
just because they were rich men
who could entertain and put on the social dog in a way that career
U. S. Foreign Service officers cannot afford to do.

BUCHANAN, OF COURSE, is in a position to know about these things. He was President Eisenhower's ambassador to Luxembourg from 1953 to 1956. He was not a career diplomat. His previous government experience had been seven years as an administrator in the machine tool section of various defense production agencies in World War II and the Korean war.

Any self-respecting striped pants
diplomat might look down his nose at any such background as training to represent the U. S. A. abroad. But Buchanan—as a well-to-do and personable young Texan with a charming wife, to put everything conservatively—had been for like in 1952. And so he became ambassador.

An embassy staff often prefers a noncareer ambassador over a chief of mission out of the Foreign Service, Buchanan allows. He will do what has to be done and spend what has to be spent—out of his own pocket if necessary—to represent properly the richest country in the world.

THE POLITICALLY APPOINT-ED ambassador comes in with a fresh American point of view that is a wholesome influence. Many American embassy staff members, though expertly competent, have served overseas so long that they are foreigners.

A career ambassador is often a strict disciplinarian. He lives by the State Department book of rules. He insists on strict protocol. His counselor must always walk three paces behind him at official function. He maintains a social caste system in his staff that is frightening. And having to live within his income and allowances, he is often a pennypinch-er.

Ambassador Buchanan was of course no tightwad. He kept up the pace set by millionaires Perle Mesta, whom he succeeded. The Buchanans entertained over 100, 000 guests—an average of 30 for every meal for three years. Mr.
Buchanan kept the news of all this flowing back to the Washington society writers.

SO AS A FURTHER REWARD, Ambassador Buchanan was recalled to Washington to become chief of protocol in the summer of 1956.

One day the Republican National Committee headquarters called him up and asked him how about a campaign contribution? The ambassador demurred. He had spent about $100,000 in the three years previous, paying the government's extra expense bills. He thought he had done a good bit for his country.

But sharing his office in the State Department was Fred M.
Alger of Michigan, who had been political appointee as ambassador to Belgium. When the GOP called

Eisenhower Asks Funds to Combat 'Asiatic Flu'

WASHINGTON UP — President Eisenhower today asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $500,000 to prepare for a possible national epidemic of "asiatic flu" later this year.

The money was requested to finance "immediate measures" by the Public Health Service to combat a fall and winter outbreak of the disease, which has spread to this country from the Orient.

The money would be used to assist state health departments in coping with heavy demands for diagnostic service.

Of the 10,600 Americans who perished in fires during 1956, 6,300 died in buildings and 4,300 outside buildings.

It Happened in Southern Illinois

Mining of Kaolin Once Was Important

John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

A few years ago Southern Illinois began to break out in a rash of centennial celebrations and evidently found it a pleasant experience. Schools, churches, communities and assorted groups have continued the practice. Even now, a half-dozen such observances are underway.

Several appropriate occasions for such observances, however, may slip by unnoted. One of these would mark the opening of the state's first kaolin mine about one mile south and two miles west of Cobden in Union county.

Failure to observe a kaolin centennial will not be strange, for the industry is entirely gone. Except for one lonely house, several times worked over the town of Kaolin to which the product gave a name has joined the roster of vanished villages. Only a few of the now aging men who worked there in the declining years of the industry are left to tell of it. A few lingering traditions of better days are still heard, and scars left on the hillsides may still be seen.

First Site at Anna

This earlier Illinois industry apparently resulted from the activities of the Kirkpatrick brothers, competent and skilled potters, who set up shop on a site near the present post office at Anna in 1859. The Kirkpatrick pottery made the conventional products of the early potter, such as churns, jars, jugs, milk-crocks, bowls and bed chambers. They also made less conventional pieces like mugs with frogs seated on the bottoms to meet the startled gaze of the drinker when he had finished.

They made demijohns with symbolic snakes wound about them. Inkwells, castles, ornamental shoes to set upon the marble tops of old time bureaus, and incised decorative vases were among their products. They also mass-produced many thousands of clay pipes, the kind that used stems of pipe cane. Many of their less conventional products had artistic merit and are even yet sought by collectors.

With their pottery in operation, the Kirkpatricks began to seek better materials for use in it. They found an outcropping of excellent kaolin on a hillside about five miles northwest of Anna and opened a pit for its removal. For some time they hauled this clay from the pit to their pottery in Anna by ox wagon. A principal use of kaolin was in the making of the distinctive glaze that identified their product.

Active Industry

Kaolin from the pit they had opened was much sought by other potters over the country, and shipment was begun over the railways. Machinery was installed to dig clay from the large open pit. A railway spur about a half-mile long was laid from the station named Kaolin to the mine. A drying processing and loading shed 60 feet wide and 300 feet long was built. Additional open pits and some tunnel mines were opened to the north and east of the original one. Drying, bagging and shipping sheds were built at the railway tank town of Mountain Glen about a mile and half north of Kaolin.

The mining of kaolin was an active industry for many years. When World War I came it was found to be of strategic value and mining was accordingly increased. Several hundred men found employment here. With the close of the war and the development of glazes using other materials, kaolin mining declined greatly. The original pit that had expanded to cover about three acres was abandoned and allowed to fill with water. The decreased demand for the clay was met by sinking vertical shafts in deposits found on the north side of the hill.

Men who had come to work at the mines moved away. The post office and stores of the village closed, the railway station and switch were removed and the shipping shed was allowed to fall down. Now, just short of its centennial the industry has entirely ceased. The large pit, once about a hundred feet deep, has filled with silt from the surrounding hills until it is now about thirty-five feet deep. Only when the visitor looks at this lake and considers that about a half million cubic yards of the clay were taken from it alone, does he realize the magnitude of the industry that centered here.

A few years ago heavers came to live at the lake. Tree stumps they gnawed along the margin of the lake may still be seen with sections of the logs they cut. Now, even the heavers have abandoned the site. Fresh cuttings show that they are busy, as heavers should be, along the nearby creeks.

Ancient Indian Campsite

In addition to the appeal that the story of Kaolin offers to those historically inclined, the site offers many other things of interest. Those who would birdwatch will find many kinds that are not common, such as kingfishers, chuck will's-widows, and cross-billed pecked woodpeckers. Plant life also is in great variety.

If the visitor is interested in Indian remains, one of their ancient campsites is found on either side of the gravel road leading south near the railway curve west of Mountain Glen. Indian Chinney, about a mile west and south from the site of vanished Kaolin, offers a continuing puzzle. Those interested in gathering fossils will find a nice deposit of them beside the roadway about a mile east of Mountain Glen.

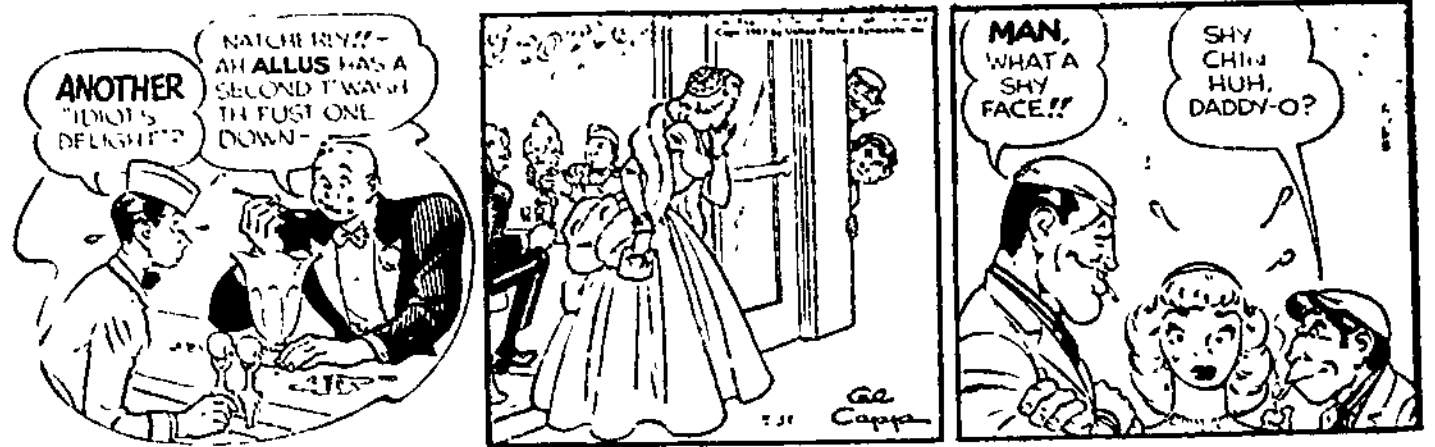

The village of Mountain Glen itself should appeal to those who again would glimpse something of the vanished calm of a country village of 50 years ago. They are a friendly people and will pause to talk about the times when kaolin was an important industry in the vicinity.

One strange fact connected with the kaolin mining industry remains, however. Despite the number of men employed, the years during which work was carried on and the hazards naturally connected with mining, no one could recall an accident that cost a life.

To the Moslems, the dome of the rock over which the Great Mosque of Omar is built in Jerusalem is a sacred place.

Khrushchev Blasts Hopes for Reunification of Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — Soviet Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev warned the United States today it is within range of "present" nuclear rockets. He cautioned the London disarmament conference to remember this before rejecting Soviet proposals.

"With the present development of rocket weapons no nation is safe from attack," he said. "U. S. statesmen should think about this."

"Distance will not protect any nation from the effects of atomic and hydrogen bombs. Those statesmen should think about this who reject disarmament agreements."

Khrushchev's blistering remarks on Soviet weapons development were an old tune, but he offered a new variation in linking rocket progress to the London disarmament talks.

One Russian demand in London is for a total ban on nuclear weapons, which the West rejects as unenforceable.

No Hope for Unity
Khrushchev, speaking for two hours to East Germany's powerless puppet parliament, repeated earlier Soviet statements that no country is safe at this stage of rocket development. He said in any war today large areas of the world would be turned into desert. "Those circles in West Germany who are disciples of a new war should think about this," he said.

In the course of his speech, he turned down any Western hopes for reunification of Germany.

He said Western proposals for reunification on the basis of free elections are "hypocrisy."

Khrushchev and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl implicitly admitted the Communists could never win any free elections even in the Red-run East Zone.

Egyptian Shrine Club Members and Families Enjoy Fish Fry at Lake

More than 60 members of the Egyptian Shrine club and their families enjoyed the fish fry at the club headquarters on Lake Harrisburg Monday evening.

The fish was deep-fried outside the club house and served picnic style, with potato chips, salads and soft drinks. The event was so well enjoyed that those present, especially the ladies, suggested another gathering soon, pot luck style.

Herschel Fritts is president of the Egyptian Shrine club this year, the membership being composed of members of Anad Temple, East St. Louis, who reside in this area.

Dense Population
With an area of less than 11,000 square miles, Haiti is the most densely populated republic in the Western Hemisphere, some 3,500,000 people being crowded in to this sun-drenched, mountain-crumpled land.

Mamie's Surgery A Hysterectomy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The operation undergone by Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower Tuesday was a hysterectomy — the removal of the uterus.

The operation is commonly found necessary for women after they reach middle age.

Medical authorities said today a Kelly Siddall Holds Top Post With Soap Firm shows the Administrative committee, of which Mr. Siddall is a member, working directly with the president and under the office of Administrative Vice-President are the Comptroller, Treasurer, Secretary and the following Staff Departments — Legal, Public Relations, Economic Research, Office Management, Airplane Operations, Management Methods Research and Personnel Administration.

Procter & Gamble has been given a tip-top rating by Management Audit, published by The American Institute of Management, an independent non-profit making organization organized for the study of business operations.

The February, 1957 audit says in part, with reference to Procter & Gamble: "At that time, no other company which we had studied offered such evidence of managerial superiority. . . . We are of the opinion that the company continues to enjoy the best possible guidance, and is eminently entitled to be classified by our standards as the best managed business enterprise in America."

In 1929 Mr. Siddall was married to Miss Helen Walker of Cincinnati. They have a daughter, Susan — now Mrs. Edward F. Castelberry — and a granddaughter, Anne Porter Castelberry.

Mr. Siddall is active in the professional, civic and church life of Cincinnati.

He is a member of the Cincinnati Country club, Queen City club, Bankers club, is a past National President and Board Chairman of the Controllers Institute of America.

Chief community interests are: Girl Scouts — Member of Men's Finance and Advisory committee; University of Cincinnati — Member of Advisory committee to the Dean of the College of Business Administration;

Community Chest — Vice Chairman, Executive Budget committee; Red Cross — Member, Board of Directors of Cincinnati and Hamilton County Red Cross;

Institute of Fine Arts — Chairman, Budget Review committee; Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce — Member, Board of Directors;

Community Health and Welfare Council — Member, Board of Directors; The Cincinnati School Foundation — Member, Board of Directors;

Seventh Presbyterian church — Member, Board of Trustees and Chairman, Endowment Fund committee.

Mr. Siddall, who has a degree of "Commercial Engineer" has been elected to a number of National social, scholastic and professional fraternities. Friends of Mr. Siddall are wondering if another advancement in the Procter & Gamble Company awaits him. The company has been in the news lately with the announcement that the company president, Neil H. McElroy, is to step out of private business and into a top government post. Mr. McElroy has been nominated by President Eisenhower to become Secretary of Defense.

hysterectomy is a major operation involving "all the risks of major operations."

However, they said the after effects of a needed hysterectomy on a middle aged woman are "nothing but beneficial." They said patients normally take about a month to recuperate.

They said hysterectomies are found necessary for a number of reasons. But he said the principal reason is the presence of benign or malignant tumor.

The White House reported after Mrs. Eisenhower underwent surgery at Walter Reed Army Medical Center that no malignant condition was involved.

President Eisenhower visited the 60-year-old First Lady Wednesday night at Walter Reed for about an hour and a quarter. As he left he said when asked how she felt: "Fine, oh, fine."

U.S. Steel Chief Denies Increase Causes Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Steel Corp. Chairman Roger M. Blough today denounced as "sheer economic superstition" any notion that a rise in the price of steel could set off a new round of inflation.

Blough said the "myth" that steel prices are too high conceivably "has been born of a natural desire to find some convenient scapegoat upon which to blame our inflationary troubles."

He said steel now is selling at an average price of about 7 3/4 cents a pound and termed this "something of a modern economic miracle."

The chairman of the world's largest private steel company said "it is impossible to argue" that big-business profits "have contributed to inflation at all." He suggested that the sources of inflation should be sought in increased wages and other benefits to employees.

Blough made his remarks in a statement before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee looking into the recent $6 a ton increase in the price of steel.

U. S. Steel boosted its prices June 26 barely 24 hours after President Eisenhower appealed to business and labor to hold down price and wage increases to help put the brakes on the inflationary spiral.

U. S. Steel's action, quickly followed by other major steel concerns, was termed by some congressmen as "irresponsible" and as helping to feed the fuels of inflation.

At the end of the 18th century, candlesticks superseded lanterns as a household necessity, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Centralia Man Captured After Wild 2-Hour Chase

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — Police captured Dewey Mills, 23, Centralia, near here after a wild two-hour chase.

State police began their chase after they were notified a man drove away from an Alma filling station without paying his bill for a tank of gasoline.

The police earlier had received a report of a car stolen from Mt. Vernon and they believed the man might be driving that car.

A road block was set up on Ill. 37, the road the man reportedly took from Alma.

When the man came to the road block, he crashed through it. Police fired several shots at the speeding car.

Police said the car matched the description of the stolen car.

Effingham police spotted the car near Lillyville and caught up with the man.

Mills jumped from his car and ran into a cornfield. Police chased him on foot and finally captured him near the Lillyville Roman Catholic Church.

Mills is being held in the Effingham County jail.

Methodist Men's Annual Revival To Open Tuesday

The third annual tent revival sponsored by the Gallatin County Methodist Men will begin Tuesday night, August 13, according to President H. H. Barlow. The revival will be held at the intersection of routes 1 and 13 each evening through August 25.

Rev. Jack Frick, popular pastor-evangelist-teacher, will deliver the message each evening, services beginning at 7:30. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doerner of Norris City, a popular singing team, will lead the gospel song services. Rev. Frick is pastor of the Trinity Methodist church in West Frankfort, Illinois.

Rev. Frick has served 5 years as superintendent of schools in Colorado. He is now serving as professor of religion at McKendree College at Lebanon, Illinois, and works on the extension staff of the college. Mr. Frick is a member of the Methodist Conference Board of Education and is on the district committee for ministerial training.

The evangelist attended college at Southern Illinois University and Ashbury College and finished graduate work and seminary at Illinois School of Theology, Denver, Colo. He began preaching at the age of 17 while in high school. A very spiritual preacher, Rev. Frick has held numerous revivals in several states.

House Approves Air Force Chapel, But No Airfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has decided to let the Air Force Academy build a 19-spired aluminum chapel after all.

But the House held firm on its refusal to let the academy have an airfield.

Funds for the new academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., were included in a $1,581,590,587 money bill for financing military construction projects and assorted minor government programs during the current fiscal year. The bill was cut $279,158,380—about 15 per cent—below the amount requested by President Eisenhower.

The House passed it, 559-75, and sent it to the Senate.

Some $1,521,500,000 of the new funds was earmarked for the Defense Department's worldwide base construction program.

One of the agencies with a vital stake in the measure was the Tennessee Valley Authority. The congressmen voted down, 244-158, a Republican move to trim the TVA allowance from $12,317,000 to $3,533,000.

They also affirmed, 150-59, a tentative decision to build a second airport for the nation's capital at nearby Burke, Va. The measure provided $12,500,000 to start the project.

Plane Struggles To Cross Pacific With 67 Aboard

HONOLULU (AP) — A Military Air Transport Service C-97 with 67 persons aboard and two of its four engines dead today struggled to fly the last 1,000 miles of its flight from California to Hawaii.

The Navy said the pilot of the plane, military version of the double-decker Boeing Stratocruiser, had reported that he had five hours and four minutes of gas left "and if I make it the tanks will be pretty dry."

The plane was trying to reach the Hilo, Hawaii, airport. The Air Force said the 10 crewmen and 57 passengers "had tossed everything possible out of the plane including baggage" as the crippled craft maintained "greatly reduced flying speed."

"The pilot reports things look favorable so far," the spokesman added.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier sent the carrier Bon Homme Richard to what the Navy said was the "possible ditching site." The Coast Guard sent the cutter Chataqua from Hawaii.

Williamson Fair Carnival Worker Arrested Here

Donald H. Casper of San Antonio, who has been with the carnival at the Williamson county fair, today was held for investigation following his arrest here late yesterday by City Policeman Pat Atkinson on a shoplifting charge.

Casper, who came here from Marion in an old-model car he bought at Marion and which bore dealer's plates from the agency, is charged with taking four articles worth $7.30 from the Harrisburg Kroger store, then taking them back and trying to get a refund.

Officers were called and he was seen coming out of the A and P grocery, where he was picked up.

Items he had in a sack, bearing the Kroger price marking, were two boxes of home permanents, a $1 bottle of shampoo and a can of automobile wax.

Casper denied taking the articles, declaring he brought the stuff over to Harrisburg for some girls at the carnival to get a refund.

Chief of Police Ross Lane said that he had been picked up in Du Quoin July 31 on a shoplifting charge but that the charge was reduced and he paid a fine for disorderly conduct.

Illinois Parents to Test Validity of Mississippi Marriage

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorneys in a child bride case dug into law books today in preparation for the second round of a court battle testing the validity of a Mississippi marriage.

Attorneys for the parents of Jane Gehrke, 13, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kanzler, are trying to show that her Mississippi marriage to Carl Gehrke, 18, is not valid in Illinois. Gehrke's attorneys argue the marriage must be recognized here.

The bride's parents pleaded Wednesday with a judge to issue a writ of habeas corpus forcing Gehrke and his parents to give up custody of their daughter.

Judge Samuel B. Epstein said he feared the elopement could start an "epidemic" of Chicago youngsters running off to Mississippi to get married.

Alto Pass Man Dies of Injuries

ANNA, Ill. (AP) — Leroy Davis, 34, Alto Pass, died today of injuries he received late Wednesday when a tree fell and crushed him. Davis was cutting trees on the Oscar Hartline farm near here when the accident occurred.

He was taken to Union County Hospital.

River Adventurer Finds Remains in '56 Plane Wreckage

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Federal officials indicated today they would wait until mid-September to investigate reports by a Colorado River adventurer that he had found human remains among wreckage from the 1956 Grand Canyon airliner collision.

At the same time, a college professor said he believed the rings Robert Billingsly, 39, Ajo, brought back with him were those of a California woman killed in the June 30, 1956, crash, worst in history of commercial aviation. A total of 128 persons died in the collision.

Billingsley told Bill Close, news director of radio station KOY, Phoenix, in an interview Tuesday that he found enough human remains to fill "10 or 12" hurlap sacks. He brought back rings he said he found on a "mummified" hand at the site of wreckage from what appeared to be the TWA airliner involved in the crash.

Graham Blames Coddling Parents For Delinquency

NEW YORK (AP) — Juvenile delinquency is a problem in America because "we offer youth nothing but amusement and coddling and not enough direction and authority," Billy Graham said Wednesday night.

The 38-year-old evangelist told a Madison Square Garden audience of 16,000 that New York and other cities face a teen gang problem because parents don't give their children "something to dedicate themselves to."

"Young people become bored with all the amusements and coddling lavished on them," he said, "and so they form gangs."

"In Germany, Hitler got the youth . . . to march proudly under the swastika . . . Mussolini got the youth of Italy to follow him in black shirts. The Communists give their youth a sense of dedication the same way."

"In America, let's give our youth Christ and watch them march under his proud banner, and the heart of the teen-age problem will be solved."

The revivalist, who will devote all of his New York crusade sermons next week to the teen gang problem in this city, said that often juvenile delinquency is the fault of scoffing parents.

Adverse weather conditions which have plagued southern Illinois farmers all spring have set the stage for more unforeseen disaster. So observes Saline County Farmers' Union President John B. McFarland. In normal years corn would be in various stages of ear formation. These ears would play host to the corn ear worms. With young corn in Saline county are no ears to attract in the late planted fields, this year's batch of ear worms are eating on the leaves and cutting the top of the stalk off. This will cause a stunted and barren plant. Practically no fields of corn in Saline county are without some damage at present. When about 75 per cent of the corn is damaged, as is the case in the Extension Agent. He will give you good advice on how to proceed from this point.

visable to spray. Also tear several plants apart to see the extent of damage to each plant. Mr. McFarland advises. Your next step, he says, is to take some of your damaged corn and send it to the Extension Agent. He will give you good advice on how to proceed from this point. If you can't for some reason contact the farm adviser, L. B. Kimmel, you can still verify whether you have ear worm damage by comparing the worms doing damage and the worms you can now find in the ear of the corn. Some farmers are having very good results using a spray material for ear worms and directing it straight down into the top of the young corn. Where damage wasn't too severe, new growth showed in a few days.

Newcombe Says He 'Might Have' Spit at Fans

JERSEY CITY 48—Don Newcombe, the Brooklyn Dodgers' temperamental pitcher who was accused of striking a fan during the 1956 World Series, conceded today he "might have" spit at some fans when he was removed from Wednesday night's game with the New York Giants.

The 240-pound right-hander, who dropped an 8-5 decision when the Giants scored five runs in the ninth inning, appeared from the press box to spit when he walked off the mound. Members of both teams refused to confirm or deny that Newcombe did but Don said when contacted early today, "I guess I did."

"I might have done it," Newcombe said. "I don't know. I was so mad. Why are they so rough on me in Jersey City? One night a couple of years ago I left my wife and baby to appear at a rally at Jersey City armory. That night 5,000 people cheered me. Now all they do is boo me. I don't care if I ever pitch in Jersey City again."

Newcombe made his gesture when he was about 10 feet from the Brooklyn dugout. He had just yielded a three-run pinch-hit homer by Hank Sauer and then pitched three balls to relief pitcher Marv Grissom.

The major leagues' pitcher of the year in 1956 when he had a 27-7 record, Newcombe has lost four straight decisions and has a 9-10 record this year. He carried a 5-3 lead into the ninth inning Wednesday night when Daryl Spencer and Ed Bressoud beat out infield hits and Sauer homered.

Harrisburg Junior Legion Edges Carmi Nine, 7-6

Harrisburg and Carmi battled into extra innings Wednesday night before Harrisburg edged out with a 7-6 victory in a Junior Legion baseball game. The victory put the locals in second place in the league standings with a record of 8 wins against 2 defeats.

Harrisburg had a big 6-3 lead going into the seventh inning, then Carmi rallied for three to knot the count at 6-all. Carmi's rally was built around an error, two hits, a base on balls and a hit batter.

The winning run for Harrisburg came on a single by Clark, a walk to Stone moving Clark into scoring position and he came around on a safe throw by Hassett.

King, Harrisburg pitcher, allowed Carmi only four hits and retired 13 on strikes. Lingafelter of Carmi was touched for only five hits, but walked 11.

Clark paced Harrisburg's attack with three hits, including a triple. Stone also had a three-bagger and Hassett batted out a single.

Sunday afternoon Harrisburg will be host to Norris City. The game, part of a twin-bill, will start at 1 p. m. Completing the double-header will be a scheduled Oil Belt league game featuring Harrisburg and Norris City.

Manager Gilbert Maynard requests all Legion players to report to the VFW diamond at noon Sunday for pre-game practice.

Dairy Brand, Martin Oil Win Kiwanis Games

Dairy Brand defeated Skaggs Pharmacy, 16-12, and Martin Oil beat Coca-Cola, 11-8, in Kiwanis league baseball games played Wednesday at the VFW park.

Dairy Brand came from behind to score six runs in the fourth inning and then scored five more in the fifth and sixth to ice the game. Hegglin, M. Johnson and Gully combined for the win, allowing nine hits and nine walks while fanning 10. Gully had three safeties. Zeigler had two and Mitchell and Utter had one each for Dairy Brand. B. Meadows was Skaggs' big gun, driving in seven runs in his first two times at bat with a grand-slam homer and a three-run triple. Wright had three safe blows, Rose two and Bensavage one for the losers.

Martin Oil scored four times in the first and led all the way in defeating Coca-Cola. Potter was the winner, giving up six hits, walking six and striking out eight. For Martin at bat Lambert had three hits, Warmelink two and Betz, Hickey, Wunderlich and Lucas one apiece. Stunson picked up three hits for the Cokes and Darrar, Gibbons and Bergin hit safely once. Stunson was charged with the loss.

Giants' Howell To Direct Pros Against All-Stars

CHICAGO 49 — The College All-Star coaches never have sent a team against one tutored by the New York Giant* Jim Lee Howell, but none of them are concerned about a "first time" Friday night.

Howell will direct the Giants against the collegians, directed by a pro veteran, Curly Lambeau, for the third time, in the second appearance of the New Yorkers in the annual clash, scheduled for the 24th time.

The records favored the professionals, since the collegians have won only seven games and tied two of the 23 already played.

EVANSVILLE CHANNEL 7 TO TELECAST GAME
Evansville Channel 7 television station will telecast the Giants-College All-Star tilt Friday night over the ABC network. The game will begin at 6:30 (central standard time).

Howell, too, may have something new to try out against the college boys, most of them soon to be pro rookies.

Curly Is Confident
But Lambeau was confident that Howell couldn't show his squad anything for which they'll be unprepared.

"He's been well-scouted," Lambeau said. "I expect no problem."

His chief assistant, Hunk Anderson, former Chicago Bears coach who handles the All-Star defense, agreed that the Giants should have nothing new.

"He uses standard offenses similar to those the Giants used under Steve Owen," he said, "and I don't think we'll have any difficulty."

Both Lambeau and Anderson coached teams frequently against the Giants when they were directed by Owen.

Plenty Of Passes
The Giants, though, can be sure of one thing. The collegians will be set to throw plenty of passes with possibly four signal callers alternating. John Brodie of Stanford, Len Dawson of Purdue, Jim Harris of Oklahoma, and Paul Hornung of Notre Dame.

It could be, too, that Hornung will get into action at a halfback post and possibly as a receiver, with one of the other quarterbacks doing the throwing.

Several of the All-Star ends rated as standout pass receivers, Joe Walton of Pittsburgh, Tom Maentz and Ron Kramer of Michigan, Brad Bomba of Indiana and Lamar Lundy of Purdue, and virtually all the halfbacks could be receivers on wide plays.

Conley Hurls Braves to 12-2 Win Over Reds; Cubs Trip Cards; Giants Beat Dodgers

By United Press
It took a long time, but string-bean Gene Conley finally has gotten around to helping the Milwaukee Braves toward some of that World Series lettuce.

Conley has suddenly blossomed forth with seven victories in his last eight decisions to give the Braves what they've been looking for all along—a fourth dependable starter.

Conley's fine seven-hit effort against Cincinnati Wednesday night gave the Braves a 12-2 victory that stretched their National League lead to 1 1/2 games. The triumph was Milwaukee's 10th in the last 12 games and Conley, who won only two games up until the All-Star break, has won 4 of those 10.

Wes Covington drove in four of the Braves' run with a pair of homers while Red Schoendienst knocked in three more with a bases-loaded triple in the seventh inning.

The Chicago Cubs, on their longest winning streak of the season made it five in a row when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1, and the Giants beat the Dodgers, 8-5, at Jersey City, N. J., in the only other scheduled National League contests.

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

BY GENE OLSON

THE STORY: Friends of Barney Jethroe, who was killed some years ago, have kidnaped the man responsible for his death from Harney Blanchard, a federal marshal. The only person who offers to help Blanchard is Pike Ambrose, a 17-year-old boy who works in a stable.

III

Roy Wilson's little place on Missouri St. showed no light. Roy was sitting on the porch alone. He stood up, tall and thin. It was almost like he'd expected you.

"I said, 'This is Harney Blanchard, judge. He was with Dorsey tonight.'"

"I see," Wilson said, a chill in his voice. Wilson was getting old. He liked being judge and they said he tried to be fair but he wasn't too smart, they said, and had made some bad mistakes in his time. He said, "And what is it you want of me?"

"Information," Blanchard said. "Somebody in your town took a federal prisoner tonight."

"So," Judge Wilson said, letting himself back into a chair. "I was n't there, marshal."

Wilson maybe wasn't smart but he was smart enough to be scared. Blanchard said, "Your marshal quit. Nobody's been appointed since. That gives you responsibility, judge."

Blanchard said, "Will you tell
